

Altec Lansing

Development: Engineering

Essential's engineering team supported overseas Altec Lansing manufacturing suppliers by developing and implementing creative, appropriate solutions to various engineering, manufacturing and assembly issues as they arose.

Our close collaboration with the development stakeholders and our proactive management of the development process ensured that the design integrity of each product was maintained, while minimizing time to market.

The new Altec Lansing docking portfolio and mono-speakers were launched to critical acclaim and enthusiastic retailers in fall 2008.
