

Moen

Research: Discovery

Are you selling a product or an experience?

Essential was asked to uncover opportunities in shower experience design and translate that into new product opportunities.

Our research revealed a wide range of development potential and a user-behavior-based segmentation approach that was effectively implemented and continues to inform Moen's future product planning efforts.

